GOVERNOR: ROLES AND RESPONSIBILITIES

This summary provides an introduction to some of the key characteristics of governorship, a summary of the main responsibilities of the Corporation and the nature of governors' liabilities.

1. Introduction: Key Characteristics

While in some respects the role of the Corporation can be summed up as one of exercising 'oversight' of the College and its work, the term should not be taken to imply in any sense a passive or merely symbolic role.

The Corporation is accountable for the financial solvency of the College, its sound management and the quality of the service which it provides. The Corporation is also accountable for the proper use of the public funds entrusted to it. Recent Government initiatives now place a sharp focus on raising quality and standards and on ensuring equality of opportunity.

There is an important distinction to be drawn between these responsibilities and that of day-to-day management of the College, which is the job of the Principal. The Corporation establishes and maintains the framework within which the College functions. The Principal is personally accountable to the Corporation for the effective management of the College within that framework.

Sound governance requires more than simply ensuring that the books balance and that the Principal is getting on with the business of running the College within the parameters established by the governors. The College exists within a constantly changing economic and educational environment. It responds to changes in direction of government policy and anticipates changing needs in its client group.

The Corporation is actively involved in reviewing the role of the College and in planning and managing change. This activity, which is broadly referred to as strategic planning, is of key significance for the Corporation and crucial to the long-term health and success of the College. The strategic direction of the College's development should inform the decisions of the Corporation in exercising its powers and undertaking the specific duties summarised below.

2. The Powers and Duties of Governors

PRINCIPAL POWERS

The powers of the 'Corporation' are specified in section 18 of the Further and Higher Education Act 1992 (as amended). In summary the Corporation is empowered to:

- a) Provide further and higher education
- b) Supply goods or services in connection with the provision of education

These powers are known as the Corporation's "principal powers"

SUPPLEMENTARY POWERS

Under section 19 of the 1992 Act as amended, the Corporation may do anything which appears to it to be necessary or expedient for the purpose of or in connection with the exercise of any of the principal powers conferred by section 18 of the Act, including in particular the following:

- a) the power to acquire and dispose of land and other property;
- b) the power to enter into contracts, including in particular:
 - i) contracts for the employment of teachers and other staff for the purposes of or in connection with carrying on any activities undertaken in the exercise of the Corporation's principal powers; and
 - ii) contracts with respect to the carrying on by the Corporation of any such activities;
 - c) The power to borrow such sums as the Corporation think fit for the purposes of carrying on any activities they have power to carry on and, in connection with such borrowing, the power to grant any mortgage charge or other security in respect of any land or other property of the Corporation, subject to the requirements of the financial memorandum.
 - d) power to invest any sums not immediately required for the purposes of carrying on any activities the Corporation has power to carry on;
 - e) power to accept gifts or money, land or other property and apply it, or hold and administer it on trust for, any of those purposes;
 - f) power to do anything incidental to the conduct of an educational institution providing further or higher education, including founding scholarships or exhibitions, making grants or giving prizes and
 - g) The Corporation may also provide facilities of any description (including boarding accommodation and recreational facilities for students and staff and facilities for the purpose of or in connection with the carrying on of the principal powers).

The powers conferred by section 19 of the 1992 Act are known as "supplementary powers".

These powers are intended to be sufficiently broad to enable the Corporation to do everything which would normally be required to run the College. The Corporation is precluded from doing anything which lies outside this framework. If it does, there is a risk of legal challenge and possible claims against the Corporation.

2.2 Duties

The Corporation's duties are defined in the College's instrument and articles of government (article 3 (1)), a copy of which every governor receives appointment. In summary these include:

- The determination and periodic review of the educational character and mission of the Institution and the oversight of its activities;
- Publishing arrangements for obtaining the views of staff and students on the determination and periodic review of the educational character and mission of the Institution and the oversight of its activities;
- Approving the quality strategy of the Institution;
- The effective and efficient use of resources, the solvency of the Institution and the Corporation and safeguarding their assets;

- Approving annual estimates of income and expenditure;
- The appointment, grading, suspension, dismissal and determination of pay and conditions of service of the holders of senior posts and the Clerk;
- Setting the framework for the pay and conditions of service of all other staff.

In addition, the College's financial memorandum places on the Corporation and its members financial responsibilities including the management of funds, the publication and auditing of accounts and the provision of student data.

Corporation is also expected to maintain a strategic oversight of:

- Raising quality and standards;
- Widening participation;
- Ensuring equality of opportunity is embedded into all policies, programmes and actions.

Note: The distinction between governance and management is significant. The articles specify those duties allocated to the Principal for which he is accountable to the Corporation (article 3 (2)):

- Making proposals about the educational character and mission of the Institution and implementing the decisions of the Corporation;
- The determination of the Institution's academic and other activities;
- Preparing annual estimates of income and expenditure for consideration and approval by the Corporation; and the management of budget and resources within the estimates approved by the Corporation;
- The organisation, direction and management of the institution and leadership of the staff;
- The appointment, assignment, grading, appraisal, suspension, dismissal and determination, within the framework set by the Corporation, of the pay and conditions of service of staff, other than the holders of Senior Posts or the Clerk, where the Clerk is also a member of staff; and
